IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES ARE PLANNED

Cardinal Vannutelli Will Attend Consecration of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York

EDIFICE WORTH $20,000,000

Although Cathedral Has Been Used Many Years, It Has But Recently Been Freed From Debt—Services Begin Wednesday.

New York, Oct. 1.—St. Patrick's Cathedral, the imposing Gothic edifice whose tall towers rising high above the surrounding structures at Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, is familiar to every visitor to New York, is to be consecrated the coming week, the ceremony as ordained by the Roman Catholic Church, being most elaborate and impressive. Cardinal Vannutelli, who was papal legate at the recent Eucharistic Congress in Montreal, will be present at the ceremony, as will several other noted European prelates. It seems curious that a religious edifice which has been in use for so many years should still await its consecration, but the reason is that the cathedral has only lately been freed from the debt incurred in the building expenses, and it would thus have been impossible to have consecrated the cathedral while there was still a chance of its desecration.

History of Cathedral.
The history of St. Patrick's is virtually a history of the Roman Catholic Church in the metropolis. The Most Rev. Dr. John Hughes, the first Archbishop of New York, began the building of the cathedral without a cent, declaring that he had faith in God and knew he could depend upon his people. He sent out in 1858 a circular to the wealthy Catholics of the archdiocese asking them to each contribute $1,000. He obtained 103 responses, two of the $1,000 contributions being from non-Catholics, who sent it because they wished to see in New York the finest ecclesiastical edifice in America.

With the $103,000 Archbishop Hughes caused the cornerstone of the new St. Patrick's to be laid. Under the direction of its architect, James Renwick, the construction was carried on with the greatest care. The contract price of the structure was $750,000, although the total amount expended upon it has been about $2,500,000. Material was cheap and wages were low in those days, and the cost of construction does not therefore represent anything like the real value of the magnificent structure. The Lady Chapel, which was added to it a year or two ago is the finest building of its size in the United States. It is generally considered, and it is to be beautiful still further, if the great plot of ground on which the cathedral stands were acquired at present real estate values and the cathedral were built now it is believed the total value of the property would not be far from $20,000,000.

Seats 15,000 People.

Archbishop Hughes died in 1864, and did not see the completion of the edifice to which he had given so much work and thought. His successor, Cardinal McCloskey, carried on the work, and in 1879 the cathedral was finished. The palace of the archbishop was finished in 1890, and the rectory on the opposite corner, a year later.

The consecration is to be one of the most notable Roman Catholic functions ever held in New York. The cathedral holds 15,000 people. But the officials say that more than that number will desire to attend each of the different functions of the three-day services, and they are making corresponding preparations.

The services will begin at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. The programme will start with a vast procession of priests, bishops and choristers around the long aisles of the big cathedral. Cardinal Gibbons will officiate at the first mass. Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis will preach the consecration sermon and Archbishop Diomedeo Falconio, the apostolic delegate at Washington, will preside at the evening solemn pontifical vespers. Thousands of Roman Catholics whose daily occupations have prevented them from attending the 11 o'clock pontifical mass are expected to attend the evening services and listen to the sermon, which will be preached by Archbishop Hickey of Rochester.

Fine Program Prepared.

Civic as well as religious ceremonies will be included in the week's program. One of the features of the celebration will be a solemn pontifical mass in the cathedral for all the Roman Catholic children of the city. This mass will take place at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The response of the mass will be sung by 6,000 of the

NEW RECORD FOR ALTITUDE MADE

AVIATOR WYNMALEN ASCENDS TO HEIGHT OF 9,121 FEET—MOTOR STOPPED AND HAD TO COME DOWN.

Mourmelon, France, Oct. 1.—Wynmalen the aviator, established a new world's record for altitude today, rising to a height of 9,121 feet. The previous best work of 8,409 feet was made by the late George Chaves.

At an altitude of 2,500 meters, Wynmalen encountered a falling cold. His fingers were numb and the key he checked and at times drove back the machine. Nevertheless the aviator continued to struggle upward.

At a height of 9,121 feet (2,830 meters) the motor stopped and Wynmalen found that his fuel was exhausted. There was nothing for him to do but let the biplane down to the earth. This was accomplished in fifteen minutes, but the graduated descent required a battle with the wind which threatened to dash the biplane to the ground. The aviator landed safely but was thoroughly exhausted.

An examination showed that the carburetor had been frozen, thus crippling the power of the machine. The flight was official and the record will stand.

On Friday, the concluding day of the celebration, there will be a solemn pontifical mass for all the religious orders of the diocese. Members of the religious orders of the diocese number more than 30,000, and this event is expected to be one of the most largely attended of the consecration. The three days' ceremonies will close with a reception to the forty visiting prelates at the Catholic Club, at which Cardinal Vannutelli will be the guest of honor.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL AT CUP RACES TODAY

Harry Grant, Driving Alco Car Wins Vanderbilt Cup. Hangs Up a New Speed Record

TWO KILLED; MANY INJURED

Races on Motor Park Speedway Today Second Only to Memorable Paris-Madrid Speed Contests in Their Tragical Results.

Long Island, Motor Parkway, Oct. 1.—With dead and wounded strewn along the 27.98 miles of the course, the Sixth Vanderbilt cup race closed today with Harry Grant driving a 120 horsepower Alco car, a winner by the narrow margin of 25 seconds. Joe Dawson was next in a Marmon car and John Aitken, third in a National. By his victory today, Grant repeats his exploits of last year, when he captured the cup in a car of the same make. His average was 65.1-5 miles an hour which establishes a new American record.

The race was marked by a series of fatalities and accidents, second only to the memorable Paris-Madrid race and its tragic results. Harold Stone of Los Angeles, driver of a Columbia car was probably fatally injured, both legs being broken and injured internally. Charles Miller, mechanic of the Marquette-Bulck car driven by Louis Chevrolet was killed instantly in a collision. Ferdinand D'Zubla of New York, manager of the Pope-Hartford company was killed in a smash-up on the way down to the race. The number of accidents, short of fatalities, ran to scores.

From a sporting point of view alone, the race was thrilling being the most hotly contested long distance event ever held over open country roads. Judged by its cost in killed and maimed, however, the race was a revolting spectacle and a severe arraignment of the manner in which it was conducted.

The Massapequa trophy race, 126.40 miles, was won by Car No. 51, a Cole, driven by William Endicott. Time 2:18:42 1-5.

Grant's time in the Vanderbilt race was 4 hrs. 15 min.; 58.39 seconds.

The Wheatley Hills sweepstakes, 189.60 miles, was won by No. 46 a Pal car, driven by J. F. Galloway in 3:15:64.5. No. 41 Pal, driven by W. H. Pearce, was second.

JUDGE BAKER ATTACKED BY INSANE WOMAN

USED LONG BUTCHER KNIFE

Baker grasped her arm and struggled with her until a policeman appeared and arrested her. The motive has not been learned.

In her cell later the woman talked excitedly. "I have killed him," she declared. "I have been sleeping in parks and cellars for three weeks and have had nothing to eat. Think of it. Some weeks ago friends told me Judge Baker had $100 for me. I called several times to get it but he said he knew nothing of it. I came again today. When I drew a knife from my dress it fell to the sidewalk and we both reached for it. He got the handle and I the blade. That is how I got out."

OWNERS PLEAD IGNORANCE.

Representative of State Labor Bureau After Owners of Launches.

Laurens, Oct. 1.—With his season's work almost completed, Captain Darius Elliott left the state labor bureau today for another swing through the state, on a closing inspection of a few lakes which he was unable to reach during his summer season. Captain Elliott was engaged during the summer in the work of compelling launch owners to obey the marine laws and he has been busy ever since. He returned from a trip through the upper peninsula this week and states that some of the smaller lakes in that portion of the state were absolutely without any protection whatever. The majority of the launch owners pleaded ignorance of the law and were given another opportunity to equip their boats properly.

In the great majority of cases small boat owners have followed the marine regulations although the expense is often heavy and the constant patrolling of the small lakes and rivers as well as of harbors along the lakes, has done much to keep the small boats up to the standard required.

BAPTIST HERESY TRIAL IS LIKELY

CONVENTION OF MICHIGAN STATE BAPTISTS ASSOCIATION TO OPEN IN DETROIT ON MONDAY.

Detroit, Oct. 1.—The Rev. Frederick Merrifield, director of the Ann Arbor Baptist guild, the association at the University City having in charge the direction of the theological training of students destined for the Baptist ministry, has been asked to make a complete statement of his views and beliefs on the Baptist doctrine and on interpretation of his religious teachings before the Michigan State Baptist convention which opens here next Monday morning.

Mr. Merrifield is openly charged with denying the divinity of Christ and his bodily resurrection, and at present it looks as if the coming convention would resolve itself into a "heresy" court of trial. The accused clergyman has the support of the standing committee, which asked that the statement be made and also of many preachers throughout the state, who are in sympathy with his views. The committee was forced to ask for the statement because of the accusations emanating from old-line Baptists in the city of Jackson.

The doctrinal controversy in the Grand Rapids territory will also come up for solution at this convention. This controversy has resulted in the organization of the Grand River Valley association, which has for some time been vainly attempting to secure admission to the state convention. The churches which now comprise this association withdrew from the original association two years ago because they said that the Rev. Dr. Wisheart, of Grand Rapids, had committed the old association to the teachings of heresy.

The state's attorney said Link had given him a letter purporting to have been written by R. E. Wilson, inviting Link to come to Springfield to talk over the matter of a banquet for Browne. Mr. Wayman said. The letter was a "fake" which had been written after the exposure of the legislative corruption and had been dated back for that purpose. The letter, he said, was similar to the one received by Representative Beckmeyer. On the fact of it, the letters were written June 28, 1909, but he pointed out they were not received until April 20, 1910.

TWENTY LOSE LIVES IN LOS ANGELES FIRE

Home of Los Angeles Times Destroyed by Dynamite Explosion and Fire At an Early Hour

LABOR UNIONS ARE BLAMED

Owners of Paper Have Been Engaged in Bitter Warfare With Unions For Years—Believe Outrage is the Outcome.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 1.—The building and plant of the Los Angeles Times, of which General Harrison Gray Otis is editor and principal owner was completely destroyed by an explosion and fire early today, resulting in the death of upwards of twenty employees and a financial loss of nearly half a million dollars. The management of the paper lays the blame for the explosion to labor unions, with which the organization's paper has long been engaged in a bitter warfare. It is charged that unknown parties set off a charge of dynamite in a blind alley which ran into the center of the building, completely wrecking the interior and setting it on fire from the roof to the basement. Between fifty and seventy-five employees were in the building at the time and until the whole list of employees can be checked over it will not be known how many lives were lost.

Responsible heads of the paper, including Assistant General Manager Chandler had narrow escapes from death, many of them having left the building but a short time before the explosion. The force of the explosion broke the gas pipes, and released the gas, which was instantaneously ignited in every part of the building. No other cause but that of a dynamite explosion was advanced by witnesses, excepting in the case of a Western Union telegraph operator, William Firman, who stated he detected the odor of gas throughout the building earlier in the night and had called attention to it.

After the explosion, the police arrested Harry Plake and William Irwin as suspects. The police are without clues as to the probable perpetrators. Wesley Reeves, secretary to Manager Chandler has not been found since the fire and it is thought that he is among the dead.

Smoking of the explosion, Chandler declared there is no doubt that this terrible outrage can be laid at the doors of the labor unions; that it was the use of dynamite and that an explosion of gas could not have caused such a complete wreck. He says that for years, the owners of the paper have been receiving threatening letters.

Foreman Craybill of the composing room estimates there were 115 men in the building, 95 of them in his department. He believes twelve of his men were killed and that the fatalities in other departments were of about the same number. Manager Chandler is authority for the statement that an attempt to blow up the Times auxiliary plant, in another part of the city was made a few minutes before the explosion which destroyed the main office.
